

SPLIT TO DUBROVNIK

M/Y Brazil - Itinerary

SPLIT

*43.5081° N, 16.4402° E
19NM to Solta = 1.5hrs*

When you settle down and settle in after your arrival, you should spend a few hours visiting Diocletian's Palace, which forms the town center. This beautiful center is a UNESCO world heritage site. Afterwards, enjoy sunset from the terrace of a coffee bar on Split's remodeled “riva” (waterfront).

In the evening find a bar, a pub, a club, or simply an open air café to whittle the night away. In Split the choice is yours as there are plenty of amusements, including evening dancing and music shows for the kids.

Of course, it is also easy enough to enjoy the view of the old town from the deck of your yacht if moored in ACI Marina.

SOLTA

*43.3870°N, 16.2875°E
19NM to Brac = 1.5hrs*

After spending your day swimming on the near by islands of Drvenik Veliki and Mali, spend the night on island Šolta in new marina Martinis Marchi located in a historic castle in Maslinica . It is a place which vividly evokes visions of sparkling teal waters and a landscape dotted with olive trees. In 1703, the three Marchi brothers got permission from the Venetian authorities to build a tower, a village and a church above the bay of Maslinica. At the time, pirate attacks were becoming frequent and, with considerable efforts of the colonists, two years later a castle was erected together with defense walls and a prominent tower as the last point of defense.

BRAC

$43.3049^{\circ}N, 16.6527^{\circ}E$
18NM to Hvar = 1.5hrs

Brac is the largest island in Dalmatia, and the third largest in the Adriatic. Its tallest peak, Vidova Gora, or Mount St. Vid, stands at 778 meters, making it the highest island point in the Adriatic Sea. Its main town is Supetar, but its oldest coastal town is Bol, near which lies Zlatni rat, or the Golden Beach, one of top ten places you should see on earth. 400 m long sides of this triangular promontory are mecca for all the sea lovers.

Bol offers vibrant nightlife and it is an often overlooked island, which makes it a good off beat destination for the more relaxed traveler.

HVAR, PAKLENI ISLANDS

43.1729°N, 16.4411°E
14NM to Vis = 1hr

The Pakleni island chain is approximately 10 kilometers long, formed of limestone, with a very indented coastline and a low forest of black and Aleppo pine. They provide numerous peaceful coves for diving, spear fishing, swimming, and water sports. Palmizana sandy beach with playgrounds and tropical vegetation is perfect for kids play. Hvar town is often called Croatia's St. Tropez. Its a place to see and to be seen, with a beautiful fort on it's hill top. You can moor in the bay and take a tender to shore or book a berth on the busy "riva". You can spend the day visiting the town, enjoying spa facilities in one of its premiere hotels, or just relax on some nearby bays. You might also dine in one of the great restaurants and spend the rest of the night in a popular local lounge, cocktail bar or club.

Hvar is the sunniest of the Croatian islands. Called the 'Croatian Madeira,' it receives 2,724 hours of sunshine a year. The stunning interior is a panorama of lavender fields, peaceful villages, and pine-covered hills. Under Venetian rule Hvar's artisans developed the fine stone-carving skills that resulted in a profusion of beautifully ornate buildings.

VIS

*43.0602°N, 16.1829°E
43NM to Korcula = 3hrs*

Sail to the island Vis, a former military base and one of Croatia's best diving spots. It also has fabulous food and wine. Getting closer you'll see the canons on top of the hill, a reminder of its military importance. You can anchor in the deep, protected bay and enjoy the splendid view.

The best way to get around is to hire a car and explore its wine cellars, historical monuments, or even Tito's wartime cave headquarters. Do not miss the secluded Stonica and Stiniva sandy bays as both are pure paradise for the kids. In the evening, return to Vis town to stroll around and discover its Roman baths. We recommend dining in Kut, a part of town with one of the most romantic villas, Vila Kaliopa, which has a delightful terrace.

On the next day sail for Biševo and visit the beautiful "Blue Cave" at its best – just before noon. Please be aware that no power boats are allowed in this pristine cavern, but local "barkajoli" are waiting to take you inside. On the opposite side of Biševo you may visit the Salbunara secluded bay.

KORCULA

*42.9297°N, 16.8886°E
21NM to Lastovo = 2hrs*

The Island of Korčula is one of the greenest islands in the Adriatic Sea. The island itself is rich in art and culture, as well as beautiful nature with breathtaking secluded beaches like the famous Vela Przina sandy beach in Lumbarda bay. The main town on the island is also named Korčula. Korčula Town is a typical medieval walled Dalmatian city, with its round defensive towers and cluster of red-roofed houses. It is well known for the Moreška, a traditional sword dance and drama, common throughout the Mediterranean in the 12th and 13th centuries, that can still be watched each Thursday evening in the town.

There is plenty of local flavor on the island. We recommend a wine tasting, a private viewing of a coral craftsman at work, and a donkey safari for the kids.

LASTOVO

$42.7513^{\circ}N, 16.8768^{\circ}E$
22NM to Saplunara Bay = 2hrs

In the morning sail to Lastovo Island, stopping first at Mladine Island (part of the Lastovnjaci islets) for a swim & lunch (there is a beautiful sandy beach called Saplun), then carry on to Veli Lago, a protected bay on the south of the island.

Take a quad ride around the island, visit the old tunnels where military submarines and boats were hidden during World War II or just relax in Krucica bay while your kids visit the pirate house that still holds the old cannon.

There are a large number of relatively small churches, a testament to the island's long – standing Roman Catholic tradition. The major cultural event is the “Poklade”, or carnival. The island largely relies on its natural beauty and preservation to attract tourists each season.

SAPLUNARA BAY

$42.6996^{\circ} N, 17.7398^{\circ} E$
1NM to Mljet = 0.5hrs

The place is well known for its sandy beaches Velika and Mala Saplunara, and Blace surrounded by dense pine woods. The bay is opened to the south west, so it has a lot of natural sun and is sheltered from the Bura and Maestral winds. The bay itself is 1km long and due to its secluded position the waters are very warm making it a perfect choice for the kids.

Near by the Saplunara bay, on your way to the lakes, you can visit Ulysses' cave where the hero of Homer's Odyssey had a shipwreck and fell in love with the gorgeous nymph Calypso whereupon he stayed for 7 years on this magnificent island.

NP MLJET

$42.7739^{\circ}N, 17.4085^{\circ}E$
 $25NM$ to Elaphite Islands = 2hrs

Visit Mljet Island and you will discover the natural beauty of Croatia. Magical Mljet would be anyone's idea of an Adriatic island paradise. With most of the island covered by forests and the rest dotted by fields, vineyards and small villages, Mljet casts a spell that can be difficult to break. Mljet National Park was created in 1960 and occupies the western third of the island and surrounds two saltwater lakes, Malo Jezero and Veliko Jezero.

The Benedictines from Pulsano in Apulia became the feudal lords of the island in 1151, having come from Monte Gargano in Italy. They came ashore in the Sutmiholjska cove and the Serbian Prince Deša of the House of Vojislavljevid built and donated the Church and Monastery of Saint Mary on the islet in the Big Lake (1187–1198). Pope Innocent III issued a document consecrating the church in 1198.

Enjoy a walk through the forest or a swim in the saltwater lakes. Mljet's natural beauty is yours to enjoy.

ELAPHITE ISLANDS

42°43'0.12"N 17°53'35.97"E
10NM to Dubrovnik = 1hr

The Elafiti islands are an archipelago of 14 islands of exceptional beauty. Cruise around the isles' many coves and hidden bays, sandy, pebble, and hidden rocky beaches with ample opportunities for sunbathing and swimming in crystal-clear waters.

THE ISLAND OF LOPUD

Lopud is one of the most beautiful islands of the Elaphiti group and the 2nd largest inhabited island. It provides you with a true Adriatic summer feel, full of Mediterranean and subtropical vegetation, amazing cypress and pine parks, as well as citrus gardens. In the time of the Republic of Dubrovnik this island was the preferred spot of the patrician families to build summer residences. Walking and hiking in the scenic natural environment of the island will reveal all its hidden natural and historical beauty, including an old fortress on the island's peak, old churches, and a sandy beach.

DUBROVNIK

$42.6507^{\circ}N, 18.0944^{\circ}E$
 $6NM to Cavtat = 0.5hr$

Old town Dubrovnik is a short ride from Dubrovnik airport. It is under UNESCO protection and one simply must not miss walking its walls while there. It is the best preserved medieval city in Europe, and in the 16th century this former independent Republic had the third largest merchant fleet in the world.

Fans of the HBO's hit TV series Game of Thrones might also recognize some of its beautiful squares and streets, where they shoot scenes for the fictional city of King's Landing. Simply put, it is a 'must see' destination.

In the evening, guests can relax at one of the many local terraces which offer beautiful views of the sunset, and then enjoy a delicious meal in one the town's romantic restaurants. There is also a thriving nightlife.

CAVTAT

$42.5813^{\circ}N, 18.2176^{\circ}E$

Only a short ride from Dubrovnik is the picturesque town of Cavitat, a seasonal port of entry. After arriving, spend the rest of the day swimming, snorkeling, or sunbathing in nearby “Tiha bay”.

In the evening, visit the center. The most significant sight is the Rector’s Palace, a Renaissance creation housing the library of Baltazar Bogisic, a local scholar. His legacy of books as well as a collection of stone monuments and a scattering of prehistoric artifacts are there to enjoy as well as attractive church of St Nicholas and interesting Franciscan Monastery.
